SEA ISLAND BEACH, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The formal opening of the sixth annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, which convenes here tomorrow, is being celebrated today by the arrival of the delegates and their families, who arrived a day in advance, spent Sunday enjoying the beauties and sports offered by this popular Georgia resort.

The visiting publishers indulged in golf, horseback riding, boating, swimming, fishing, trapshooting, tennis and archery. They assembled tonight under tropical palm trees to listen to a group of plantation singers from near-by Sapelo Island hum negro spirituals.

A yacht trip to Sapelo Island, the estate of Howard Coffin, where former President Coolidge visited when he was in the White House, will be made tomorrow afternoon with luncheon served aboard the yacht Azula.

Wednesday the visitors will go to the magnificent Sea Island hunting lodge, where they will enjoy an oyster roast, making a stop at Jekyll Island, where a large number of America's millionaires maintain winter homes. The convention will close Wednesday evening with a brilliant dinner-dance given at the fashionable Clowder hotel, where the visitors are stopping.

RALPH COLLINS.

TECH BOY KILLED BY SPEEDING CAR, WITNESS ASSERTS

Collins Hit by Roadster on Wrong Side of Ponce
de Leon, C. F. Wallace,
Cab Driver, Says.

Police Sunday night were searching for the driver of the small roadster of a popular type who late Saturday night ran down and instantly killed Ralph R. Collins, 23, junior at Georgia Tech, on Ponce de Leon avenue near Myrtle street, and sped away from the scene with a headlight bent backward as a result of the impact.

"Collins' death exemplifies one of the most wanton instances of hit-and-run driving on our records," Police Captain Grover C. Fain said Sunday night, "and with the information we have we expect to trace the car and its driver. It is clear that the driver was going at a reckless rate of speed and also driving on the far left side of the street. We know that the occupants of the car were aware that they had struck a man and that they left the scene without even stopping to render assistance."

A few hours after the accident, C. F. Wallace, of 574 Western avenue, driver of a taxicab, appeared at the office of The Constitution and reported having seen the car strike Collins. He said his cab contained a passenger and was proceeding east on Ponce de Leon avenue when a small roadster occupied by three persons came toward his cab on the wrong side of the street. This was a few feet east of Myrtle street, Wallace said, and the roadster was being driven at approximately 50 miles an hour. Wallace said it was necessary for him to pull sharply toward the curb to avoid being struck by the roadster and at the same instant, he said, a young man started across the avenue from the south side of the street. The roadster struck him, Wallace said, and the impact was so great that the left fender of the car was bent slightly and the headlight turned straight up.

The driver of the roadster did not slow down, Wallace declared, but proceeded to Myrtle street, into which he turned, going northward. Wallace said his passenger directed him to turn about and attempt to give assistance to the victim. He said he felt the man's pulse expire as he reached him, and then called an ambulance.

The force of the impact was so great that Collins was knocked clear of his shoes, one of which was found several hours later about 75 feet away from the scene of the accident. The other shoe had not been found Sunday night. At Greenberg's, where the body was taken, it was said that young Collins received a severe fracture of the skull, a broken neck and leg.

The victim was in his junior year at Georgia Tech, and worked part time for the Georgia Power Company. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. U. T. Collins, of Blairsville, and popular among his classmates in the electrical engineering department of the institution. He had left the place where he and other Tech students roomed, at 202 Williams street, a half hour before he was killed.

Collins is survived by his father, U. T. Collins, of Route 2, Blairsville, two sisters, Misses Goldie and Mamie Collins, and his grandfather, W. D. Collins. The body was removed from the funeral home of Sam Greenberg & Co. Sunday night and taken to Blairsville for services and interment there today.

Fierce Storms Raging Off East Florida Coast Take Heavy Toll of Ship- ping and Crews.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A quaking sea off the lower Florida east coast today sank the barge Northern Light with the probable loss of five lives and tossed the tug Ontario, went down off Caryfort reef below Miami at 2:20 a. m. Five sailors were tossed into dashing whitecaps and only one, J. Stewart, was rescued by the Ontario.

The Northern Light, loaded with phosphate and bound from Tampa to Wilmington, N. C., in the tow of the tug Ontario, of Mobile, went down off Caryfort reef below Miami at 2:20 a. m. Five sailors were tossed into dashing whitecaps and only one, J. Stewart, was rescued by the Ontario.

At daybreak, Chief Pilot Bob Moore, of the Curtiss Wright Flying Service, took off from Miami in effort to locate the missing men, but returned four hours later without having found a trace of them. Their names were announced from the barge company offices in Mobile as John W. Heath, master; C. B. Pittman, of Mobile; K. Leiz, address unknown; R. S. Watson, of Mobile, and J. B. Bollen, of Tampa. The Ontario stood by tonight with dimming hope of effecting a rescue.

The Messenger was beached while en route to Fort Pierce to aid the freighter Lillian, whose propeller had fouled against a can buoy chain Friday. The Lillian, owned by the Baltimore & Carolina lines, was floated today with little damage, but the Messenger was in a precarious plight from the raging surf. Captain Charles Russell and the crew of six were rescued with life lines by the Jupiter light house crew and taken to Miami.

The freighter Upsur, which was disabled Thursday night, was reported today in tow of the tug McCauley, of Savannah, en route to Jacksonville. She is owned by the Merchants & Mariners line. Although impotent from engine trouble, the Upsur yesterday aided in rescue of the crew of the schooner Dunham Wheeler, which went down near Cape Canaveral. The Upsur sighted the schooner's distress signals and radioed the steamer Aztec, which changed her course to remove the schooner's crew and then proceeded to New York.

NONE SAVED AS SCHOONER
CARRIES 18 TO BOTTOM
EUREKA, Cal., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Putting out to sea in the face of one of the worst gales felt here in years, the steam lumber schooner Brooklyn sank while attempting to cross the bar at the entrance to Humboldt bay, carrying aboard her Captain, T. Tufesson, and a crew of 17.

After part of a night and day of search by coast guard patrol boats and harbor craft, no bodies had been recovered, although wreckage of the little wooden steamer, including a smashed lifeboat and the pilot house, was washed ashore.

Coast guard officials said their lookout noticed the Brooklyn steaming out of the harbor while a strong wind was blowing and a heavy fog settling over the water. Apparently, they said, nothing was wrong as the ship crossed the bar, but a few minutes later the steamer whistled four times, indicating distress as heavy waves broke over her. For several minutes she seemed to drift, then turned over and sank.

In the reviewing stands sat a galaxy of notable Georgians, headed by Governor-elect Richard B. Russell, Jr., himself a member of the Legion post and a member of the Georgia National Guard. Other guests included Mayor L. N. Hagdale, Adjutant General Homer C. Parker and others, while citizens of everyday rank stood at silent attention on the embankment during drills and regulation maneuvers by the prospective soldiery below.

Band Concert Is Opened.
Opening the services, the regimental band of the 122d infantry rendered marches, overtures and medleys, while the fit and drum corps of the Legion post thrilled the crowds with renditions of military airs. Following was a fancy drill by Company C, Captain Joseph L. Spencer commanding, after which the keynote of the demonstration was struck when the Rev. D. Witherington Dodge, chaplain of the local Legion post, delivered a brief benediction.

Gordon Singleton, commander of the Atlanta post of the Legion, made a brief address to the assembled troops, memorializing the valor of the men who lost their lives during the war. In his talk Commander Singleton said:

"It is significant that every country that has failed to render its appreciation for the sacrifices of its people has sunk into oblivion." He paid high tribute to the record of the American forces during the war and expressed the hope that universal peace would reign perpetually.

Colonel Gerald P. O'Keefe commanded activities of the 122d regiment, with Lieutenant Colonel Charles E. Thompson directing as executive officer. The entire regimental staff, consisting, besides Colonels O'Keefe and Thompson, of Major Sion B. Hawkins, Major Edgar H. Greene, Captains Elbert P. Tuttle, L. O. Mosley, W. L. Mattox, William E. McTier and Lieutenant Elmer L. Stanley, appeared on the parade ground in dress uniform. Warrant Officer Cal C. Barber conducted band concerts of the guard while W. N. Beneath skies of gray thousands of Atlantans Sunday afternoon thronged the banks of the oval at Piedmont park and witnessed the inauguration of this city's exercises commemorative of the twelfth anniversary of Armistice Day.

Upon the spacious greensward stretching north to south, erect citizen-soldiers in dress uniform, progressed through special drill formation and parade review, as the 122d infantry, Georgia national guard, and the Atlanta post No. 1, American Legion, opened Atlanta's demonstration of recognition of the sacrifices made by veterans of the World War, with special emphasis displayed for those who gave their lives in the great conflict.

Pickpockets Scarce If Donbecky's on Job

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Sergeant Frank Donbecky, eagle-eyed ace of the first precinct anti-pick-pocket squad, along with 39 other plainclothes men, was assigned to watch the Fordham-University of Detroit football crowd to see that the "dips" kept away from the pockets of excited fans.

So successful was the work of Sergeant Donbecky and his associates that only one instance of pocket picking was reported.

A bill folded containing $8 was taken from the hip pocket of Sergeant Frank Donbecky.

TRIAL OF WILKINS WILL OPEN TODAY

Ex-City Physician Faces
13-Count Indictment Charging Extortion.

Dr. John G. Wilkins, former city physician, will go on trial before a jury in Judge G. H. Howard's division of the Fulton superior court at 9 o'clock this morning to answer a 13-count indictment charging extortion.

Dr. Wilkins is accused of having extorted from women prisoners at police headquarters various sums for treatments given them, the true bill alleging that by virtue of his office the treatments were to have been given at the municipal clinic without cost.

Since his indictment the physician has been placed on the suspension list by the city and has lost a court fight to obtain a pension granted employees of the municipality for long service.

Dr. S. D. Warnock, former associate of Dr. Wilkins in the city medical work, Saturday entered a plea of guilty before Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy to an eight-count indictment of a similar nature and was sentenced to pay a fine of $250 or serve seven months in jail. He paid the fine.

GENERAL BLISS DIES AT CAPITAL

Distinguished Soldier
Succumbs in 77th Year
After Gallant Fight.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—General Tasker Howard Bliss is dead. The wartime chief of staff and one time commanding general of the army died early today, closing an active career of more than half a century in the military service. He was 76 years old.

Death came to the stalwart old army officer at 2:35 a. m., in Walter Reed hospital, days after attending physicians had given up hope of his recovery. He suffered from an intestinal ailment.

Mrs. Bliss and their two children, Colonel Edward Goring Bliss and Mrs. Eleanor Frances Knopf, of New Haven, Conn., were at his bedside when he died.

Funeral services are to be held Wednesday and burial will be in Arlington cemetery. Famous military and naval officers will escort the body to the grave.

General John J. Pershing, Secretary Hurley and General Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, were the first to express regret at the passing of their wartime comrade and counselor.

Of his comrade, with whom he had served for many years, General Pershing said, "The army loses a great soldier and the country one of its distinguished citizens," and added: "He lived his life in fulfillment of his solemn duty (West Point), duty-honor-country."

Secretary Hurley, himself a wartime officer, said: "With the passing of General Bliss on the extra session."

Ring-Biting Robber, Bashed, Does Brodie

Putting teeth in banditry is the idea of one of Atlanta's resourceful hoodlums. He bites rings in two and refers to diamonds as "sparklers"—a tough guy.

Mrs. E. W. Smith, who operates a rooming house at 98 Trinity avenue, went for a pitcher of water in the kitchen of her house Sunday. In the fczg dark hall she suddenly was accosted by a white man, who demanded the custody of the three diamond rings she wore. Without waiting for her to comply, he snatched up her hand, bit through the band of one of the rings and into the flesh of Mrs. Smith's hand.

The lady countered involuntarily with a bash on the head with the pitcher and the intruder did a Brodie through a rear window. He didn't get the rings.

HARDMAN NEAR SESSION DECISION

Governor Says Issue Will Be Definitely Settled
This Week.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 9.—Governor L. G. Hardman will make known his decision about an extra session of the legislature by the end of next week, he stated Sunday afternoon before departing for Brunswick, where he will speak Monday afternoon before the American Newspaper Publishers' Association at the annual meeting, which will be held at Sea Island Beach.

The report of Miller and Surles on Georgia's financial affairs will reach the hands of the governor on November 20 and the contents of that report will determine whether there will be an extra session. Governor Hardman said he is having copies of the report mailed to members of the house and senate in order that this report may be studied prior to the final decision on the extra session.

When asked whether the extra session, if called, would convene before or after the holidays, Governor Hardman said he could not answer this question until he had decided on calling the session.

Governor Hardman, accompanied by Mrs. Hardman and Lamarine Hardman, arrived in Valdosta Friday afternoon.

Saturday morning Governor Hardman visited his country estate, Lake Alcyon, southwest of Valdosta, and in the afternoon he attended the funeral of Mayor J. R. Dasher.

Sunday morning Governor and Mrs. Hardman attended services at the First Baptist church, the home church of Mrs. Hardman. At Brunswick they will be the guests of Howard E. Coffin on his private yacht. Governor and Mrs. Hardman expect to return to Valdosta Tuesday.

PARTY SPOKESMAN ACCLAIMS PLEDGE OF CO-OPERATION

Situation Demands Co-Operative Action as Patriotic Duty, Says Senate Leader James Watson

PROBLEM IS ONE OF DEFINITIONS

How Both Parties Are To Decide on Proper "Welfare" Legislation Seen as Puzzle.

BY HERBERT LITTLE.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Hoover administration in a statement by Senate Floor Leader James E. Watson today accepted the democratic pledge of co-operation in legislative proposals affecting the public welfare.

Senator Watson's statement, issued through the republican national committee, said he welcomed the joint pledge of Chairman John J. Raskob, of the democratic national committee, and six other democratic leaders, "and I am sure my colleagues will welcome it also."

"We are faced with a national situation where the only patriotic solution lies in co-operative action," Watson added. He alluded to what he termed "obvious political propaganda" in the democratic statement, but commented he did not wish to accept the offer in any spirit of recriminations.

The democratic statement, Watson said, should steady the public mind. "It was, no doubt, put forward in the hope that it would stabilize the public markets which have been falling out of unnecessary alarm since the day of election, and it should carry conviction that this alarm is uncalled for because it gives assurance that there will be no attempt on the part of the democratic party to support democratic legislation."

Duty to Help.
"It is obviously the duty of republican members to co-operate. The two parties are practically equally divided in the congress. It may be that the republicans have a majority in the lower house."

The very evenness of division between the two parties is without parallel in our history. It represents a legislative victory neither for the democrats nor for the republicans. It may be well said on one side that the democrats have made considerable legislative gains. It may be said on the other side that the republicans of the opposing party are much less than in many mid-term elections hitherto; that the democrats have failed in their objective and that the republicans have held astonishingly well in the face of the adverse factors temporarily in motion."

Meanwhile early reports indicated that the always individualistic members of the democratic party might not fall in line with the promises of the seven leaders, and on the other hand, might not present the unanimous party lineup necessary to any attempt to capture control of either or both houses. Senator-elect Huey Long, democrat, Louisiana, is unwilling to leave Louisiana until his term as governor expires. Senators here pointed out that democratic legislative policies are decided by party caucus and not handed down from high by party leaders.

Menace Ambition.
These developments menace the democratic ambition to control the two houses but apparently almost evenly divided on the present Tuesday's elections—more than the democratic promise to co-operate in non-partisan measures which are aimed to promote the public good. If a half dozen democrats are lost in either house on organization, the attempt is lost, but it will take only a few democrats supporting the body of republicans, to put over a measure.

The difficulty here is one of definition. How can the democrats decide whether a measure is non-partisan or not? And on any major economic question, the leading democrats almost always have methods of solving it which are radically different from the republican remedy. A year ago democratic leaders supported the

Speeding Hawks Adds Another To Record List

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Captain Frank M. Hawks, who casually flies his low-winged monoplane hither and yon, setting all sorts of speed records between widely separated cities, arrived from Havana at 4:18 p. m. today with a new mark in his possession.

Taking off from Havana at 7:34 a. m., he landed here 8 hours and 42 minutes later. Subtracting 39 minutes for stops at Miami, Fla., and Charlotte, N. C., his flying time was 8 hours and 3 minutes. The best previous time between the Cuban city and New York was about 12 hours.

On Friday Captain Hawks flew from New York to Havana in 9 hours and 21 minutes, thereby adding another to his list of records, which includes transcontinental speed marks in both directions.

Today Captain Hawks' average speed was 100 miles per hour. He a. m.—(adv.)

flew from Havana to Miami in 1 hour and 39 minutes, then battled headwinds on the hop to Charlotte, which he made in 3 hours and 40 minutes. With tail winds pushing him along, he made the trip from Charlotte to New York in 2 hours and 50 minutes. Greeted by his wife, several well-known aviators and an enthusiastic crowd of 2,000 persons, Hawks said he had encountered beautiful weather all the day and wasn't in the least tired. He was loud in his praise of the co-operation accorded him in Havana.

Prison Chaplain To Describe Thrilling Work of Salvation

Rev. E. C. Atkins Will Tell Methodists of Handling Prisoners

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Among the many interesting reports to be submitted this week during the North Georgia Methodist conference by pastors none will be more thrilling than that of the Rev. E. C. Atkins, chaplain of the state prison farm at Milledgeville. For eight years Mr. Atkins has been working in that capacity, and the story of his labors is an absorbing one.

Although he has spent many years in prison work, most acceptably and successfully, Mr. Atkins today says he seems to know less about it, the more he learns; and he expresses amazement at the lack of knowledge and interest of the general public as to what goes on behind prison walls. Men and women confined there, he says, are soon forgotten, save by a few curiosity seekers who visit the prison to see noted criminals, but who have no kindly interest in them.

At the urgent request of the prison commission eight years ago Mr. Atkins was loaned to the state to serve as chaplain. Each year following the commission has renewed the request for his continuance. Chairman Rainey has just written Bishop Moore, asking that Mr. Atkins be reassigned to that work for another year, declaring that declared it to be their purpose and desire to live Christian lives, and have voluntarily joined the association. During this year 370 religious services have been held at the farm, and as a visible result 249 men and women have accepted Christ as their personal Saviour, and have joined the Testament League. Upon the arrival at the farm of a prisoner, Mr. Atkins immediately writes him a personal letter as his first approach, and this plan has proven helpful. Five hundred and eighty-two such letters have been thus written.

Special Meetings Avoided.

In promoting religious work among the prisoners every trace of anything of a sensational nature has been studiously avoided and shunned, and no special meetings are held. Each service is so conducted as to make it an avenue leading up to a public confession of faith and declaration of a new purpose. Prisoners are not urged to accept Christ, but are told of the privilege and opportunity of doing so. The decision is left with the individual. Seldom a week passes without men and women accepting Christ.

An impressive incident occurred at a recent midweek service with the inmates of the female camp. Usually the invitation is extended, and the group of listeners stand while the song is being sung. In the recent midweek service referred to there was no singing and the group was asked to remain seated. Without any outside influences moving them, the hearers were asked to rise from their seats and make their way forward.

The response was gratifying, as 17 persons went forward, knelt on the stone floor, wept out their repentance, and gave their hearts and lives to God. Of the number some were young women, others middle-aged, and several were gray-haired women. Cooperation and emotion were entirely absent, yet there was manifest an intense interest.

Difficulties are encountered in carrying on the religious work in the prison. All the inmates have to work, going out at sun-up and returning at sundown. Little time is afforded for it, save on Sundays and holidays.

Many Reforms Genuine.

Not all the confessions made are lasting, of course; but most of them are genuine, and lasting reforms are effected. Many of the converts remain in prison and assist in carrying on the religious endeavor. Some become workers in the Sunday school, others lead prayer meetings, while others exhort fellow prisoners to accept Christ.

Scores of instances have occurred, upon the departure from prison of some who have made profession of religious faith, of their continuing in the straight and narrow way, and becoming upright and useful citizens as well as workers in churches where they locate.

A few weeks ago a capable and attractive young woman from another state was released to go home. During her imprisonment she had become a Christian believer. When leaving, she said to Chaplain Atkins: "Chaplain, I want to say to you I have been greatly helped by the religious meetings. I am going home, not only to give the rest of my life to the service of the Lord, but I am going to engage in some form of religious work for the sake of others."

On her way to Alabama, she passed through Atlanta, and, while stopping at a local hotel between trains, wrote again giving assurances of her purpose. Since reaching home she has written reiterating her determination. Frequent letters are received by Mr. Atkins, asking that certificates of moral character be forwarded, that church connections may be established wherever the released prisoners may go. Several young men now at the prison are studying and preparing themselves for Christian work when they get out.

One phase of Chaplain Atkins' work that is very trying is that connected with prisoners condemned to the electric chair. During this year he has held 74 services in the death cells, and followed 54 men to their execution. He says this is his hardest work, and he simply cannot get used to it. No two men are the same, and each condemned man is a separate problem, to be solved in an individual way. Some are grossly ignorant, not knowing the first principles of salvation, and have to be instructed like little children. Others are self-willed and obstinate, proving difficult to teach. Mr. Atkins gets in touch with inmates of the death cells as soon as they reach the place, and spends from three to five hours with them daily thereafter.

Two Resist Religion.

Mr. Atkins says of all those condemned men who went to the electric chair only two resisted the offers of religious consolation. Others have gone to the chair calmly, and with the apparent hope of a better life in the eternal world.

He relates an instance of powerful religious influences working upon a negro man, condemned for the murder of nine women and girls. The man was as if only a few years from the jungles, with long, straight black hair, finger nails an inch long and curved. Mr. Atkins realized that the man knew nothing of the simplest truths of religious belief, and would have to be taught as an infant.

Telling the condemned man of the Heavenly Father and His love, for man, and the sacrificing Saviour, making every effort to bring these truths in the simplest way to the ignorant prisoner, hours were spent from day to day in the attempt to reach his inner being. Finally, one day as the chaplain spoke to him, the negro began to shake all over his body, then rocking back and forth on his cot where he sat. Burying his face in his hands in prayer, he presently threw up both hands and started to cry aloud in shrieks of joy.

Goes to Death Calmly.

As in the jail at Phillips, when Paul and Silas created a furore by their shouts, so this condemned man created a sensation, and others went rushing to see who was being killed in cold blood. Chaplain Atkins urged the man to say "De thyself no harm, for we are all here," and assured them the man would soon overcome his hysteria, and talk calmly. From then to the hour of his execution the prisoner maintained his faith, rejoicing and went to his death calmly.

Another death-cell instance, of the very opposite extreme, occurred when a confirmed infidel was carried there, and breathings and slaughters, swearing that no one would ever put him into the chair. Anxiety was felt among the authorities, for relatives had sworn to shoot to death any officer or person who might lay hands upon the prisoner.

Shortly afterwards Chaplain Atkins approached him, assuring the prisoner that permission would be given for visits of relatives, and offering to give religious help, provided it was desired. The hardened criminal shocked the chaplain by asking that he return and tell him of religion. Returning to the cell later, the prisoner stated that he wanted to know about "every thing." During the following days the man received instruction, which he at length accepted personally, confessing that he had possessed his soul. On the day of his execution he was the calmest man in the room.

Doomed Negro Saved.

The experience of an Atlanta negro who was carried to the farm for electrocution vividly illustrates the working of Providence, as well as the effectiveness of religious work done on the farm. Sent to the death cell, the man clung to a delusion, that being a church member was sufficient for his salvation. Respite for 60 days, he cast aside the teachings given and went deeper into sin. Carried back to be executed, he still clung to his delusion until advised of the completeness of his error and warned of his doom. Respite again for 60 days, he was more thoughtful. Finally, returned to the prison and electrocuted, he refused any stimulant for his last ordeal, and passed out in victory.

An officer of the Fulton county jail asked Chaplain Atkins what he had done to the negro, since he was so changed after his second respite, not longer cursing and gambling, but reading, praying, singing all the time. Mr. Atkins has just observed his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary, and says he is getting younger all the time. Formerly a minister of the Northern Methodist church, uniting with the conference in 1887, he affiliated with the Southern Methodist church and served in various pastorate and enterprises, until the Georgia prison commission asked his appointment as chaplain at the farm. Success has crowned his ministry there, where he is loved by the prisoners, held in the highest esteem by the prison authorities, and by the citizenry of Milledgeville and Baldwin county.

U. S. MISSIONARIES SLAIN IN BRAZIL

Three Deaths Occurred During Attack on Isolated Station by Indians.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(P)—Receipt of cablegrams declaring that two American missionaries and their infant daughter of one of them had been killed in an attack on an isolated station near Jurueina in the wilds of Brazil was announced tonight by Alfred H. Vroom, of Ridgewood, N. J., treasurer of the Inland South American Union.

The messages did not state who made the attack, but it was Mr. Vroom's belief that it was perpetrated by Indians. In that section of Brazil the Indians are naked savages, Mr. Vroom said.

Last night Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie, president of the union, had announced that the deaths were due to an automobile accident. Today he explained that he personally had not seen the cablegrams and from what others at the union offices had told him he gathered the mistaken impression that there had been an automobile mishap.

Informing that relatives of the missionaries had received telegrams from the union office telling of an attack, he said he was now informed such was the case. He referred inquiries to Mr. Vroom, who he said was better acquainted with the text of the cables.

Mr. Vroom said the messages listed the dead as Arthur S. Tylee, formerly of Worcester, Mass., his 2-year-old daughter, and Miss Ethel Kratz, about 26, a registered nurse from Chicago. Mrs. Tylee was injured, but is recovering, while a Mr. McDowell, of Ireland, another missionary at the little station, apparently also escaped with his life, for it was he who sent one of the messages.

CANDY WEEK OPENS IN ATLANTA TODAY

Candy week will be officially opened this morning with a parade to be staged by the leading manufacturers and distributors in Atlanta, starting from the Fox theater at 10:30 o'clock and passing through the business section.

Featured in the floats prepared for the parade will be members of the cast appearing in Fanchon and Marco's "Box o' Candy" idea this week at the Fox. The girls are eating candy on a 36-week test to show what effect sweets have on one's figure.

The parade will proceed in Peachtree to Whitehall, to Mitchell, Forsyth, Marietta and out to the Block Candy Company, where the girls will inspect the plant.

Mayor Ragsdale has issued a proclamation suggesting that the people of Atlanta join in the observance of the week. The proclamation follows: "Whereas, Atlanta ranks fourth among the cities of America in the production of candy; and

"Whereas, the Atlanta manufactured product is nationally known and distribution is national; and

"Whereas, the manufacturing plants represent large investments of capital and employ hundreds of Atlanta citizens; and

"Whereas, the industry contributes substantially to the progress and prosperity of Atlanta and state of Georgia as well; and

"Whereas, candy may be regarded as a staple article of food, appealing to the diet from babyhood to old age; and

"Whereas, local manufacturers are uniting in a campaign of education to better acquaint the consuming public with all phases of the value of candy as food as well as a pleasant confection; and

"Whereas, first emphasis will be stressed locally and the campaign will be enlarged; and

"Whereas, Atlantans should support enterprises that support Atlanta; and

"Whereas, the manufacturers are asking special co-operation of our citizens during the week of November 8 to 15, when the campaign of information will be launched.

"Therefore, I wish to suggest that Atlantans patronize our local industry as liberally as possible during the week mentioned, and thus assist the candy manufacturers to advertise Atlanta not only as one of the largest candy manufacturing centers in the United States, but one of the largest consuming centers as well.

"I. N. RAGSDALE, Mayor."

Grateful Baronet Leaves $100,000 To Former Valet

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(P)—Grenville Owen Sampson, who befriended a baronet and later became his valet, has just learned from a newspaper that his master left him 20,000 pounds (about $100,000) in his will. Sampson was formerly a page boy at "White's," one of London's famous clubs.

The baronet was Sir Charles W. E. C. Hartopp, once first secretary in the British legation in Persia. When Hartopp took seriously ill in Cairo some years ago, Sampson nursed him back to health.

This devotion received a tribute in the will as "service I can never repay." The news of the legacy came as a surprise to Sampson. He remained quite calm in his good fortune, however, and expects to invest the money.

Also, he intends to carry on with his job of headwaiter, which recently he has held at another London club.

J. M. GEORGE DENIES DESIRE TO OUST FOES

James M. George, chief marshal of the municipal court, Sunday issued a statement denying that he would use his influence with the board of county commissioners to have removed from the county pay roll any jobholders who supported his successful opponent, J. W. Simmons, in their special election race last May for the post of clerk of the superior court.

Mr. George said he believed an article in Sunday's Constitution saying that those who supported Simmons expected to be dismissed from the county service indicated that he might be the cause for their dismissal.

"If the county board votes to relieve any of those who opposed me because of their action I will be the first to appear before the board and speak for them," Mr. George said. "I know positively that no member of the board will seek to control the vote of those working for the county and that none of those who fought me are in jeopardy as far as their jobs are concerned."

Sun To Drive Clouds Away, Forecast Says

Although fleecy clouds gave a dull cast to the skies above Atlanta Sunday the forecast for today was for fair weather, with temperatures near the seasonal normal. No rain is in sight for the next day or so, according to the outlook, although cloudy weather may be present during today and Tuesday. The high temperature for Sunday was 60, while the minimum recorded registered 47, which was only a few degrees below the normal mean recording for this season of the year.

"WHINERS" SCOREDBY DR. MELVEEN

"If you can't whistle in this day of depression, then don't whine. Business should devise some scheme by which it should court-martial the discourager. He who loses heart always loses in the game of hearts and in every other game." So said Dr. W. T. McElveen at the morning service of the United Congregational church.

"At this moment let the croaker be silent. Life is not a hospital; it is a busy workshop. The chief trait of civilization is not disease; it is health. Civilization is old. Its death

Negro Is Shot Dead.

An alleged attempt to retrieve money lost by gambling was ascribed Sunday afternoon by police as the motive for the slaying of Guy Parrish, a negro, of 153 Eliza alley, by Ed Watkins, also a negro, of 1981-2 Auburn avenue, who was arrested. Detectives quoted Watkins as saying that when he had won Parrish's cash the latter advanced on him with an ice pick and demanded its return. "Then I shot him down," he said.

has been prophesied many times. It will carry on, and croakers will not help it progress."

4 NEGROES HELD IN HOLDUP WAVETwo Men and Two Women Identified by Victims, Police Say.

First fruits of Chief of Police James L. Beaver's campaign to round up bandits and thugs who have been operating in various sections of the city for the last week or 10 days and who Saturday night were responsible for 22 hold-ups, purse-natchings and sluggings, came Sunday afternoon with the arrest by detective members of the bandit squad of a quartet of negroes, who were taken in custody on Sunday.

The prisoners—two men and two women—were arrested on the identification of George Rogers, of 364 Fourteenth street, and Clarence Fair, 182 Holtzclaw street, as the robbers who Saturday night took $13 from them in a hold-up. The suspects gave their names as Henry Harvill, Carrie Harvill, James Clements and Pearl Hardy.

A sharp reduction in the number of hold-ups was noted at headquarters Sunday night after the previous night's feverish activity in every section of the city. Up to a late hour Sunday only one hold-up had been reported—that of Calder B. Vaughn, of 165 Fourteenth street, who said that two young white men drove up to the curb as he was walking along E. street between Eighth and Ninth streets shortly before 9 o'clock, waylaid him and robbed him of $11 after an unsuccessful attempt to force him into their car, a large sedan.

Burglaries reported early Sunday morning numbered only two—the Totten Dry Cleaners establishment at 1403 Highland avenue, where $15 in cash and several bundles of wearing apparel were taken, and the North Side Loan office, 191 Edgewood avenue. The amount of loot in the latter burglary was not revealed.

LODGE TO OBSERVE FIRST ANNIVERSARY

The first anniversary of Daylight lodge No. 125, F. & A. M., will be observed at a luncheon to be held Thursday in the banquet hall of the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets.

Richardson and Raymond Daniel, past masters of the grand lodge of Georgia, and Frank F. Baker, present secretary of the grand lodge, will be special guests.

Daylight lodge was chartered and instituted a year ago for the benefit of Masons who are employed at night and have no opportunity to attend meetings held at the customary hour.

Lecturer Thinks O'Neill's Best Work Is Yet To ComeMRS. MADGE SCOTT CALLS HIM GREATEST OF PLAYWRIGHTS

BY RALPH T. JONES.

"Strange Interlude" will not be considered, in the future, the finest play written by Eugene O'Neill. This is the carefully considered opinion of Mrs. Madge Scott, of the Theater Guild, Inc., who is in Atlanta in advance of the engagement of the guild company at the Erlanger theater next week.

"Strange Interlude," she said Sunday afternoon, "may be the best thing he is not as good as some of the things he is going to do."

Mrs. Scott is an almost fanatical admirer of O'Neill. About the only thing he has written for the stage that she doesn't like is "Desire Under the Elms." She is quite convinced that he will go down into history as the greatest of all American playwrights and, perhaps, the greatest in the world.

"He is so emphatically sincere," she says. "His lines are so perfectly created and he stays true, all the time, to what he has seen and what he feels. He is superlatively honest and such a quality is the greatest requisite for success in any creative work."

Mrs. Scott is herself one of the most entertaining talkers imaginable. Her business is to lecture about the theater and she has, more than once, kept a roomful of Atlanta school girls entranced for more than two hours at a stretch. Which, in the line of achievement, is itself something to boast about.

She admits frankly that she is chiefly interested, at the moment, in talking about "Strange Interlude." She doesn't, however, want everybody to see it at the Erlanger theater next week.

"There are some people," she said Sunday afternoon, "who are better not to see the play. Better for them and better for the play and the theater. Because it is such an intelligent thing. And after all it is better for people not to worry over things they don't understand, isn't it?"

Greatest Soul Analysis.

"But I think it is the greatest analysis of the soul of a woman that ever created. Nina, in the play, is to me the same character as the Silver Child. She is a woman who must always dominate every situation. Her spirit demands that she take everything and use it for her own spiritual need. She is, after all, true to life. She merely is common."

polled, by circumstances, to find the object for her mother love, for her husband affection and for her passion in different men, rather than in the one individual.

Mrs. Scott talked Sunday of many things. Of books and the theater and the democracy and prohibition and the movies and Will Hays. Of cigars and restaurants and husbands and religion. Of woman's clubs, of legislatures and of the new youth.

But always she harked back to Eugene O'Neill and "Strange Interlude." It is admitted that the play has stronger enemies and fiercer friends than any production the stage has known before. One thing is certain. In Mrs. Scott it has made the strongest friend imaginable.

Maybe it'll do likewise for all of us. Anyway, don't forget that the curtain rises each night at 5:30—for her own spiritual need. She is, after all, true to life. She merely is common."

$250,000 IS DONATED TO HELP UNEMPLOYEDAl Smith To Head New York Committee To Unify Relief Work.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Donation of $250,000 from the Milbank memorial fund and the selection of former Governor Alfred E. Smith to be chairman of a committee of 100 to unify relief work were outstanding developments in the city's war on unemployment today.

The $250,000 gift was made to an emergency employment committee headed by Seward Prosser, chairman of the board of the Bankers' Trust Company. Albert G. Milbank, president of the fund, said:

"Our directors viewed this unemployment situation as an emergency of such gravity that they were willing to make the appropriation out of the principal fund."

The fund was established in 1905 by Mrs. Elizabeth Milbank Anderson as a memorial to her mother and father, with an appropriation of $10,000,000. Its purpose is the improvement of the physical, mental and moral condition of humanity and the general advancement of charitable and benevolent objects.

The organization headed by Mr. Smith, called the welfare council, will not raise funds but will co-operate with fund-raising committees. The former governor issued a statement defining the aims of the council as the promotion of employment, the prevention of pauperism, informing the public of conditions and the organization of all agencies into an effective relief force.

Adjutant Cunningham, however, added that he does not believe that the peak of the depression has yet been reached.

18-YEAR-OLD SETS NEW AIR RECORDS

Boynton Ends Fastest Junior Round Trip Trans-Continental Flight

ROCKLAND, Maine, Nov. 9.—(AP) With two new junior records sewed up in the prop of his fast monoplane, Stanley Boynton, 18-year-old Lexington (Mass.) aviator, landed here today to complete a round trip transcontinental flight begun at this airport October 27.

Ten thousand spectators cheered the boy flyer as he set his plane down at 4:29 p. m. His elapsed flying time from Los Angeles was 20 hours and 29 minutes, reducing by 3 hours 24 minutes, the previous west-to-east record of Robert Buck, of Elizabeth, N. J. On the westward air trail he bettered Buck's time by more than four and one-half hours.

The last leg of his flight, and the roughest of the trip, Boynton said, was made from Rutland, Vt., after he had been forced down by rain while flying from Rochester, N. Y., today.

Boynton landed amid a pandemonium of whistles and automobile horns in the field where he learned to fly. Thousands of persons, including his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Boynton, of Lexington, surged out onto the field as the plane stopped and the flyer was borne aloft on the shoulders of the crowd.

Airport officials looked upon Boynton's trip as an achievement in junior flying. In bettering both records of Buck, the Lexington youth flew a longer distance than any previous transcontinental flyer, as his elapsed time was reckoned from Rockland and return. Buck flew from New York. On the westward flight to Los Angeles Boynton lopped 4 hours 31 minutes from Buck's time of 28 hours 33 minutes. Buck's time for the eastward trip was 23 hours 47 minutes.

Governor-Elect Russell Aids Poppy Drive for War Vets

Governor-elect Richard B. Russell, Jr., backs up his promise to cooperate in Tuesday's "Poppy Day" drive for disabled veterans by receiving from Mrs. Frank Kempton the little token of honor to the heroes. Staff photo by Troy Bennett.

Tuesday will be Poppy Day. Thousands of Atlantans will pay tribute to the memory of the World War dead by wearing paper replicas of the poppies of Flanders fields, and thus aid the men who were disabled during the conflict.

In Atlanta hundreds of women will sell the little red flowers, made by disabled veterans who are unfitted by war for any vocation. The local unit of the auxiliary of the Disabled War Veterans is in charge of arrangements, and civic, county and state officials are offering full co-operation. Official proclamations have been issued, and leaders in office and those on the threshold of entering public office have given the movement their indorsement.

All money raised in Atlanta will be used here, according to officials of the drive. The funds will be expended for the relief of local disabled veterans and their families during the coming year. It is expected that more than 10,000,000 poppies will be sold over America, according to Mrs. Arthur Hazard, chairman of the local campaign. Approximately 100,000 women will take part in the work throughout the country, and it is expected that more than $1,000,000 for relief work of the Legion will be forthcoming.

No price is to be asked for a poppy, each purchaser being allowed to contribute any amount desired. Mrs. Hazard stated further that it is expected that a larger number will be sold in Atlanta this year than ever before, thus enabling the local relief program to be greatly expanded. Headquarters for the local poppy sale will be in the pine room of the Ansley hotel, it was announced Sunday by Gordon Singleton, commander of the American Legion here. Mrs.

BILLY DOVE STARS IN GEORGIA PICTURE

"ONE NIGHT AT SUSIE'S" starring Billy Dove. Sound news, cartoon, and Bobby Jones' special sound short. On stage, a four-act vaudeville bill headed by Harry Carroll's revue, assisted by Lew Forbin's orchestra.

"One Night at Susie's" is different, at least. It starts out calmly enough, but veers sharply and ends up in a riotous little trol in the many years of happy movie finales.

The action is predicated on the convenient theory that at least 99 per cent of all men are vipers when it comes to a pretty girl.

Thus Billy Dove is the beautiful but virtuous heroine who is lured to the apartment of Viper No. 3, a wealthy show backer. To save the old virtue she kills him just as her fiancé bursts in. Of course he takes the rap and goes to Sing Sing. So far, nothing startling.

He writes in jail. She produces his playlets with great success. He writes a play but this leaves the managers cold.

He has put his soul into the effort and when she sees that he is losing his grip because of his non-acceptance she sacrifices her honor to Viper No. 2, a producer, in order to get the thing on the boards. Mr. Will Hays, presumably, was snoozing when this slipped by.

Of course Viper No. 3, a rascally detective whom she has spurned, learns of this seeming perfidy. He exposes her to Susie, rough but beloved foster-mother of the boy. She is much irritated and berates the girl as she comes to welcome home the playwright.

The girl friend, however, convinces her it is only a technical error. Boy and girl go away happy and some of the good old dame's obliging gorilla friends bump off Viper No. 3, so all is well, although all is far from the usual Hays' standards of purity.

Miss Dove is surprisingly good as the girl. Helen Ware is, for the most part, splendid as Susie and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is not too bad as the boy.

On the stage Eddie Bruce's clowning, a la Bobby Clark, Gaynor and Byron's dizzy skating and Harry Welch's vocal monkeyshines amuse the folks greatly.

CONFESSES BURNING HIS WIFE TO DEATH

Mild-Mannered Salesman Near Collapse After Ad- mitting Crime.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Howard M. Swavely, a mild-mannered salesman of 35, tonight was near collapse in his cell, awaiting arraignment on a charge of burning his wife to death to reap her life insurance. Police say he has confessed the slaying.

Tomorrow, Swavely will be arraigned on charges of murder and arson. His wife, Elizabeth, died Friday from burns which she suffered after fire enveloped her bed as she slept.

Swavely protested his innocence for 36 hours although his wife accused him in her dying moments. Police said he confessed when he was confronted by his first wife, Mrs. Linnie Swavely, of Philadelphia, who said he had served 18 months in a Pennsylvania jail for an attempt on her life. They were never divorced, she said.

In the role of a woman spy, Noah Beery leads the supporting cast, which includes an officer of the legion, who gives an especially fine performance. Fanchon and Marco's "Box o' Candy" reveals a choice collection of sweets when opened. Two "nut comedies," Jones and Hull, produce in the audience a state of hysterical laughter, and Collins and Peterson, in "I'll Be Seen 'Ya," complete the fun riot started by the "nuts." Reeves and Leu get a big hand with doll dancing done differently, and Lynn Cowan, composer, is applauded handsomely for his singing. The Sunkist Beauties form an attractive background for the show. —BEN COOPER.

SOCIALISTS MOURN GERMAN REPUBLIC

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 9.—(AP)

Two thousand national socialists today held mourning services here to commemorate the 12th anniversary of the revolution which established the German republic. They gathered around and in the historic Burgerbräu beer cellar where Adolf Hitler hatched his abortive conspiracy to overthrow the present German government in 1923. The ceremonies were conducted without disorder, and Hitler himself kept in the background.

The Bavarian government's ban on fascist uniforms continued in force, but a hundred or so of the leading fascists had obtained special permission to don the brown shirts for the occasion. The program was largely musical, the only speaker being the fascist divisional commander, Alfred Wagner, who is a member of the Bavarian diet.

Stribling, De Kuh and Dempsey

Into the lull in football that comes Monday and Tuesday of each week has been dropped the outdoor boxing match between Young Stribling and Arthur DeKuh to give Atlanta folks something to talk about.

Stribling for the first time since he flattened Phil Scott in a London ring and stepped into the front rank of heavyweight contenders, will don the gloves in his home state.

His only other start was against K. O. Christner in Boston two weeks ago. In that scrap Stribling calmly cut the Akron battler down in three rounds. His injured left hand that was novocained to deaden pain in fighting Otto Von Porat and Scott has completely healed.

The scrap will be the sporting feature of Armistice Day. The ring will be erected in front of the grandstand at Spiller field.

The baseball company is promoting the event and is putting out every effort to make it a major league event. Jack Dempsey, himself, will referee.

PA STRIBLING'S ANSWER.

Stribling already has signed to box Tuffy Griffiths for the Chicago Stadium and George Getz' fund for the unemployed, December 12.

He has been showered with offers from New York to fight Jack Sharkey for a similar fund. Sharkey made a grandstand gesture in offering to fight Stribling for nothing to help the suffering wives and children of the jobless, etc., etc., etc.

Pa Stribling answered that offer with a lot of horse sense. He said:

"W. L. has signed a contract to fight for the unemployed of Chicago. That is fair enough; Chicago has been very good to him. But W. L. does not owe New York a dime.

"W. L. will be willing to fight for the unemployed of the south anytime, anywhere. Now if Sharkey is so keen to help out the unemployed, we will be delighted to fight him for street car fare in Atlanta. Sharkey has profited handsomely in two fights in the south. He collected plenty of money for fighting W. L. and Phil Scott in Miami and much of it came from southern people. If he wants to do something big and noble let him fight W. L. here for a charity fund."

That word from the defendant in an exaggerated case of booing that has been made in New York since Stribling refused to fight Sharkey there for the occupants of the park benches is a pretty fair retort.

WAYWARD PICKS UP.

Wayward's selections took an upward turn Saturday when only 10 chances in the 48 were lost. After two weeks of taking one blow after another on the chin he managed to hoist his average. It goes to prove that even a Mental Loss can't be wrong all the time.

Wayward did Georgia a favor by selecting N. Y. U. This was on the earnest request of "Red" Leathers, the big guard and get-em man, who backed up his request with a threat of bodily injury.

Wayward's season record now is 293 won, 79 lost, percentage .787. His conference average is 98 won, 20 lost, percentage .831. Anyone can do it; it simply is a question of being dumb enough to try.

ONE INCH, ONE MILE.

Football is a game of extremes. The margin between winning and losing sometimes is six inches of brown turf or the lunge of an excited end a split second too soon, yet in the estimate of the players and the public, there is a gap as wide as the Grand Canyon between victory and defeat. There is no middle ground.

This lapse into deep philosophy was occasioned by pondering the case of the football team representing the Georgia School of Technology, North avenue, Atlanta, this morning.

A placement kick after touchdown three inches better would have spelled victory at North Carolina, 7 to 6. A fractionally slower charge by a lineman in the Vandy game on Pat Barron's fine run conceivably might have meant victory; certainly it would have changed the whole face of a game in which the enemy showed no ability to sustain a drive.

More instances might be selected from a game that was decided solely by the breaks in fumbles and penalties, but those two will suffice to make the point clear. Instead of two conference victories, one tie and two defeats; Tech today would have had four conference victories and one defeat. The goose (or gander) would be hanging high.

THE UNDERTONE OF THE GAME.

The "just suppose" element never enters into the philosophy of the partisan football fan. He is like a child who has broken his wagon; there are no more wagons in the world and certainly no way to fix this one.

But—law, me!—if this innocent quality were taken from the fan psychology—if victory and defeat were not separated by a gulf as wide as the Grand Canyon the old game would die on its feet.

Those innocent exaggerations of the issue at stake and blindness to the part fortune plays make college football the game it is. They do not play football in heaven.

GEORGE GETS BACK.

George Hanjaras has come back to the United Restaurant on Alabama street after a prolonged visit to the old country. He came back to find the place gaily decorated in paper streamers of every hue in the rainbow and several hues that no rainbow ever dared wear. "Welcome Home" signs were everywhere.

It seems they were mighty glad to see George back home safely. The story is out that the old folks tried to marry him off to one of the nice girls in the neighborhood. He was the wealthy restaurateur from the States and was feted and much made over.

"I jus couldn't get used to it over there," George explained. "It sim strainch and dif'rent. I talk half Grik and half English. I hed to esk ever what they say. It was lonesome in the small town. Maybe you think I was glad to get back, huh?"

George laughs when they talk about hard times here. "You got no idea what hard times can be," he explained. "Families with 5,000 drachma save oop for winter are okay. That's about seventy-five dollar."

Victorious Bulldogs Look Ahead to Tulane Game

Bulldogs Look Ahead To Game With Tulane

Life Seems Just Succession of Big Efforts to Members of Georgia Squad.

By Ralph McGill, Staff Correspondent.

EN ROUTE HOME WITH GEORGIA FOOTBALL TEAM, Nov. 9.—Tide always seems to be one more river, and a tough one at that, for the Georgia football team to cross.

Having won their sixth game of the year by beating New York University 7 to 6 Saturday at the Polo Grounds in New York, the Bulldogs have Tulane as the next foe on the card.

Tulane, with one of those hand-picked schedules which permits of rest games now and then, is right at the peak for the Bulldogs. A rest game now and then is relished by the football men, but the Bulldogs have had no relief at all.

Beating the Violets took a lot out of the Bulldogs. Just how much remains to be seen. The game was a hard-pounding one, as all games with eastern teams are.

It required that the Bulldogs play a steady defensive game all the way and that they have enough to meet the drive rally that the Violets put on, and a mean sort of rally it was that brought the ball more than 60 yards.

The Georgia eleven played perhaps its best football of the year, and the 7-6 score does not really show what a definite edge of superiority the Bulldogs had.

GREAT DEFENSE. The team was especially strong on defense. It played really magnificent football all the way. The offense was well balanced with the defense. In previous games the Bulldogs have had a great offense in spots and a fine defense at times. On Saturday they had them working together well.

Georgia out-rushed the Violets, out-passed them and made more first downs—in addition to making the most points.

It was a real football team that beat New York Violets and one that looked at least two touchdowns better.

NEED BALANCE. If they can hold the offensive and defensive balance which they possessed on Saturday at the Polo Grounds they will beat Tulane.

The problem is one which has the coaches considerably worried. They plan to let the men who played most of the game take a rest on Monday. Practice for the Tulane game will begin Tuesday.

The Bulldogs are battered up a bit and need a rest period badly.

The game is to be played in New Orleans. This means that the Bulldogs must again board Pullmans and travel. The trip will be their fourth in as many weeks. They have already come to Columbus, Savannah and New York and now must make the difficult journey into Louisiana.

STRAIN MAY TELL. It is all a matter of edge. Georgia is perhaps the better football team of the two. Yet the Bulldogs have been traveling and meeting the hard ones. And the strain may tell.

None of the players is injured and the squad is looking forward to the game in New Orleans. The Tulane squad will wipe out the Bulldogs' hopes to earn a bit of rest before beginning preparation for Birmingham, which is another game in the schedule which calls for a trip.

The victory over N. Y. U. established Georgia firmly as one of the leading national football teams of the season. No matter what happens now the Bulldogs are assured of an excellent season.

BIG CROWD. Despite the fact that there were two other college games in New York Saturday the Bulldogs and Violets pulled out a crowd that was barely short of 45,000. The Army-Illinois game drew about 70,000 in the Yankee stadium. The Notre-Dame-Penn game in Philadelphia pulled 35,000 people out of New York.

The New York press was very kind to the Georgians. Lewis Hurston, writing in the New York American, declared that Georgia badly outplayed the Violets, calling attention to the fact that the Bulldogs out-rushed the Violets more than two to one.

J. P. Abramson, in the New York Herald-Tribune, declared that Georgia was the better team.

GELDING WINS. PARIS, Nov. 9.—(P)—County Deperigue's six-year-old gelding, Aeneas, won the Aston-Blaunt steeplechase stakes at Antwerp today, paying 25 to 1. Two other long shots, Bigor-neau and Rhodius, followed the son of Clabismus across the finish line.

The race was 2 1/2 miles over hurdles.

CROWN BATTLE TOPS RING CARD

Singer Defends Title Against Canzoneri at Garden Friday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(P)—A battle for the lightweight championship with Al Singer defending his crown against Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight titleholder, comes to the rescue of the national boxing program this week and saves it from almost complete obscurity.

The battle, which is to take place in Madison Square Garden Friday night, is something of a novelty for New York. It is the first time in nine years a lightweight title bout has been staged indoors here. Singer won the championship from Sammy Mandell in an outdoor fight last summer.

Canzoneri considered the leading contender for the lightweight crown as a former titleholder and a veteran scrapper who once gave Mandell a great fight for the title. It is the first time the title has been at stake since Singer won it.

Lumpkin's Eleven Ties Strong's Team

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(P)—Roy "Father" Lumpkin and his Portsmouth, Ohio, Spartans, made a great stand to tie Ken Strong's Stapleton team in a National league football game today.

Strong tossed a pass to Stein for a touchdown early in the first period and led the Spartans to a 13-0 lead. Half that went 50 yards for a second score. Doug Dykoff aided with some fine punting and made the tally.

Lumpkin put the Spartans back into the game when he recovered a blocked kick on the 23-yard line. Bennett carried it over on two runs. Bennett again broke loose a few minutes later and carried the ball in eight plays from his own 45-yard line to the goal to tie the score.

Atlanta's Dodo Club, which is growing so rapidly these days that it threatens to outnumber the Non-Dodo Club before long, hailed a new member Sunday morning when W. G. Forney saw his spoon shot from the fifth tee at the Piedmont Park course and rolled into the green 200 yards away and plop into the hole.

N. B. Blount, O. V. Braun and W. W. McDonald registered consternation.

Athens Ovation Awaits Bulldogs

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—When the Georgia Bulldogs return Monday from their second triumphant pilgrimage into the east, they will be greeted by a crowd of students and Athens citizens that will rival the hundreds who met the boys when they came home after beating Yale.

The 50-piece Georgia University band, led behind on the trip to New York, will be at the Southern railroad station to greet the players.

When the team arrives at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning, so will several hundred Georgia students who will cut their morning classes to welcome the boys who Saturday beat one of the east's best teams.

'Catfish' Beat Violets By October Practice

Mehre Had Bulldog End Drill Continually on Making Good Tries for Extra Point.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 9.—Catfish Smith made a try for extra point good against New York University Saturday, winning the game for Georgia. And thereby hangs a tale.

It was a cold, windy day in October, just after Georgia had returned from licking the Bulldogs of Yale. The Athenians were taking their first workout on Sanford field after their return home. Harry Mehre had a satisfied gleam in his eye, but lurking way back was a look that meant the future had not been forgotten.

"Come here, Vernon!" the Bulldog coach suddenly yelled. Vernon—Catfish Smith to football fans of the nation—came running over to where Mehre was standing, just in front of the goal posts.

"Smitty," said Coach Mehre, "I want you to practice kicking a football right between those two little crossbars there. And I want you to practice doing that every day until you are able to drop in between the cross-bars 10 times out of 10 with your eyes shut."

Nothing loath, the lanky end star began trying to boot the ball through the crossbars, with little Austin Downes, Smith's sidekick, holding the pigskin.

Smith didn't have any startling success at first, but he kept plugging away.

LOOKING AHEAD. "An extra point may win a football game for us," Mehre declared, turning to a bystander. "And failure to convert a try for that one little point may lose a game. We almost lost the Yale game because we couldn't kick extra points—but from now we're in the extra-point business."

"Keep your eye on the ball, Vernon, and look at it until you boot it," said Mehre as he stood behind the Bulldog left end.

"Here, let me show you how," Mehre stepped behind little Downes, the ball was snapped back and the Georgia coach did the same thing that he'd been trying to stop Smith from doing. He looked at the crossbars while kicking the ball, with the result that the pigskin flew wide of the goal posts.

HOW NOT TO. "That's the way you shouldn't kick it," exclaimed the quick-witted Georgia coach before the boys could voice their sarcastic remarks. "Any way, you get the idea, Smitty?"

Smitty evidently got the idea, for he kicked nine out of ten every day in practice until the North Carolina game came around, and in that game he made two extra points out of three attempted. And against Auburn he made three out of four. Saturday in New York he made good the only kick he had a chance to try, thereby putting Georgia ahead. And there the Bulldogs stayed from then on.

So now all Georgia needs is someone who can kick field goals when the Bulldogs run up against a stone wall.

GEORGIA MUST DOWN TULANE TO CHALLENGE

Bulldogs Played Inspired Game Against Violets; Jackets Improved.

By Ed Danforth.

In the event that any doubt lingered in the underbrush that the current Crimson Tide had an overbalance of everything it takes to make a great football team—and probably there was no doubt at all in the aforementioned thickets—it all was dispelled by the murderous assault the Wade forces made on the University of Georgia eleven Saturday.

Alabama won, 20 to 0, with "Hurricane" Cain, their sophomore fullback sensation, sharing largely in honors that heretofore have gone mostly to John Suther and John Campbell. Alabama scored three touchdowns on a team that a week before held Georgia to a scoreless tie.

What is more impressive is the fact that Alabama has beaten Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Kentucky and Florida on successive Saturdays. No other team in the conference has achieved such a sweep of power over a four-week period. Nothing but an exceptional team of unlimited strength and ideal balance could have won those four games.

So, in leading the conference with six victories and no defeats, Alabama can be pardoned for casting hopeful eyes on the battered diadem with two games yet to play. And, nationally, Alabama ranks as the only unbeaten or untied eleven.

EASIER PATH. Tulane—the only other unbeaten and untied team in the organization—has three conference victories, but the only strong team to beat was Georgia Tech, if the Yellow Jackets can be called strong. Tulane is out of the national picture through a defeat inflicted early in the campaign by Northwestern. The Greenies, still saving strength for Georgia, defeated Auburn handily, 21 to 0, Saturday.

Georgia's bounce back into the front row by losing out New York University, 7 to 6, at the Polo Grounds, the game was not as close as the score indicates. "Catfish" Smith's conversion of the point after touchdown was a demonstration of the adage that the better team usually wins by the margin. Georgia had the edge on the Violets nearly all the way, but had to come from behind to win.

The Bulldogs now can approach the crucial Tulane game with improved morale. One sense of the detail of play in New York that the southerners won without pumping themselves to the limit. At least an army of Georgia fans hope to see the team beaten before Georgia can enter the Thanksgiving Day game in Birmingham as the champion to battle Alabama for the championship.

FOLLOWED BALL. Vanderbilt showed a keen nose for loose footballs, a surprise lateral pass smartly executed, and hard tackling on defense to beat a much-improved Georgia Tech team, 6 to 0. The Engineers pretty generally scattered the young Commodores. Although the Yellow Jackets fumbled five times to give Vanderbilt the ball within the 30-yard line, Vandy could not get it across.

The result was a disappointment to both sides. Only Coach Dan McGugin, of all the visiting coaches, expected to see Tech's resistance. Vanderbilt partisans had reasonably expected the young Commodores to run up quite a score. The Tech element wanted a victory badly for obvious reasons, and suffered as the Commodores' defense kept water all afternoon through failure to hold the ball.

The Yellow Jackets probably sustained the most serious injury of the day. Vance Maree was kicked in the leg, and has a charley horse that will help him much against Pennsylvania.

IRON MEN. The Commodores played the game with a determination that mingled bruises and bumps. They have the heaviest business of the year just ahead of them. They play the University of Tennessee, an old time rival, in Nashville, next Saturday. Poor protection for passer and kicker against Georgia Tech, and a sluggishness in the charge of the offense were hampered their attack against Tech. They must improve—or else.

Duke continued the unbroken string of victories that began the week after the Blue Devils lost to South Carolina, September 27, by beating a crippled Kentucky team, 14 to 7. The Wildcats were still groggy from their encounter with Alabama, and Duke was closing too smoothly to be halted.

Tennessee, waiting for the Vanderbilt game, ran up a score on Carson-Newman using second-string players. Their varsity men were in the

Bulldogs a Cinch, Thomasville Says

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 9.—A party of Thomasville football fans who yesterday drove to Gainesville to see the Florida Gators and the Alabama Crimson Tide in action, returned convinced that Georgia should win when their team and the University of Alabama meet. They report that Alabama's backfield is nothing to be frightened at.

The Bama line is extra strong and heavy, but the team pulled trick plays and their efforts in the forward passing were short of outstanding results.

Boys' High, Tech High Meet in Annual Prep Classic Saturday

INTEREST HIGH AS OLD RIVALS WORK FOR GAME

First-Stringers Closely Matched, But Purple Has More Reserves.

By Roy White.

Boys' High and Tech High will hold Atlanta's football spotlight this week as they meet at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon on Spiller field. And what a game that promises to be!

It is the only gridiron clash in the city Saturday. Each plays Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, and Georgia plays Villanova also in Philadelphia, and Georgia journeys to New Orleans to battle Tulane, leaving only the prep classic of the year for local fans.

Other prep games of the week-end include Marietta and R. E. Lee, of Thomsville, on Friday; Commercial and Griffin in Griffin, Friday; Russell and Decatur, probably Friday night in Decatur.

PREP CLASSIC.

The Tech High-Boys' High meeting stands out as one of the best prep games of the entire season. Rivalry between the two institutions dates back to their first meeting many years ago, and has increased with the passing of time.

Atlanta's prep football fans always look forward to the Boys' High-Tech High struggle, and it is always the climax of the season for the two schools. Other games count in the final analysis, but to Tech High and Boys' High the game is one of paramount importance.

In years past the game has been played on Friday afternoon or Saturday morning, and it is always the enthusiastic fans of the city have been deprived of the opportunity to see the game; but this year they have their chance, with no college game scheduled within 100 miles of the city.

TICKET SALE.

Tickets for the game will be placed on sale Tuesday at the school on Parkway drive.

Both schools have been the talk of prep football fans for weeks already. Both institutions have five teams, among the best in their histories. Both are coached by experienced and capable men. Boys' High, R. E. Lee, "Shorty" Doyal, a former Georgia Tech lineman, and Tech High by Claude (Gabe) Tolbert, a former Georgia star.

Boys' High Purple Hurricane opened with a 35-to-0 victory over Darlington, followed with a 7-to-0 net win over McCallie, and then dropped a one-point game to the University. Tech High tied the Hurricane and University was beaten, 40 to 2.

SMITHIES' RECORD.

Tech High played a scoreless tie with G. M. A., defeated Enslay, 18 to 0, and lost to the Madison Aggies, 7 to 0, on a blocked punt. Tech High breezed through a 28-0 game with University and then stopped the famous Tusculum High eleven after a five and one-half year winning streak. Two weeks ago the Smithies blew up in Charlotte and lost, 33 to 0, to Charlotte High. They rested last week-end.

Coach Doyal has two teams of practically even strength and has used them both to advantage in every game. He has plenty of capable reserves and two of the speediest backfields in prep history. His lines are on a par with other prep teams, and only one touchdown has been made against them.

Tech High has a veteran forward wall and a limited number of reserve linemen. The backfield is light but fast.

FEW RESERVES.

Coach Tolbert has a minimum of reserves and cannot cope with the abundance of Boys' High array. Should the regulars remain in the game, the Smithies may have a chance but once the varsity combination is broken, it is up to the individuals to carry it.

While the local interest is centered on Tech High and Boys' High, and there will be plenty of action in the G. M. A. ranks, G. M. A. opens the week's activities with a Tuesday game in Rome, and Lanier and Madison furnish an afternoon's entertainment in Macon in another Armistice Day game. Madison is undefeated in the northern division of the association and Lanier High has lost only one game and that by one touchdown to Savannah.

G. M. C. and Monroe will meet Friday afternoon in Milledgeville and Riverside meets Darlington on Thursday in Gainesville in other important games of the week.

Smithies, Purples Start Secret Work.

In preparation for their annual football game at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Spiller field, both Boys' High and Tech High will start secret practice this afternoon. Tech High will practice on Henry Grady field on the school lot, while Boys' High will continue its practice at Piedmont park for several days.

Both Coach Doyal at Boys' High and Coach Tolbert at Tech High plan to shoot the works in the Saturday game. Many new plays will be given each team.

Tech High was idle last week after a disastrous 33-to-0 defeat November 1 in Charlotte, N. C., and already has begun work for Boys' High.

Boys' High eased out a 7-to-0 victory over Central High, of Knoxville, last Thursday afternoon and used practically every player in uniform.

Georgetown Bans Night Grid Games

Georgetown University of Washington, D. C., probably will abandon night football after the close of the present season.

Strib Batters Sparring Partners in Workout; Maloney Fight Seen

De Kuh, Near Peak, Takes Day of Rest

Both Fighters Show Killing Punches in Latest Workouts for Tuesday's Battle.

Young Stribling worked ten rounds yesterday in the gymnasium of the Georgia Power Company in final preparation for his 10-round bout with Arthur DeKuh, the Italian behemoth, Armistice Day at the baseball park.

The Georgia slugger looked fit and vigorous as he battered four sparring partners about for a round apiece. Previously he had done two rounds of top skipping, two rounds of shadow boxing and two rounds on the heavy bag. He finished in excellent shape. Then he motored to Candler field and flew away in his plane to Macon. His daughter, Mary Virginia, was having her second birthday, and the head of the house could not afford to miss that.

From the DeKuh camp it was reported that the Italian had had enough hard work and would rest Sunday. He plans a light drill Monday.

With the two principals in the main event ready for the go, officials of the Atlanta Baseball Company turned their attention to the final arrangements for staging the greatest outdoor boxing show ever held in Atlanta.

A card of 48 rounds of boxing beginning at 2 o'clock has been arranged to give a welterweight of entertainment. The main event will be called at 4 o'clock, but in case the day is cloudy it will be moved up ahead of one or two of the preliminaries. Motion pictures of the event are to be made and the promoters want to give the cameramen sufficient light.

Stribling's appearance in an Atlanta ring is his first southern start since he knocked out Phil Scott in England and vaulted into the front rank of heavyweight contenders. His injured hand which necessitated a two-month layoff has completely healed. He is hitting harder than ever now, as was evidenced two weeks ago when he knocked out the rugged K. O. Christner, of Akron, in three rounds in Boston.

W. L. gave those who watched him Saturday in the gymnasium an eye-full of his new-found punching ability when he knocked out a 190-pound sparring partner with the big 10-ounce gloves used in training. The big fellow was wearing a regulation boxer's helmet that protects the head and ears. Stribling maneuvered his man into a corner and suddenly shot over the famous buckshot punch as he came out of a clinch. The blow landed on the helmet, but the man fell face forward on the floor and was out for a long count. It was an amazing exhibition of the punching power in the Stribling fist.

DeKuh has made a fine impression on fans who have watched him work. He stands 6 feet 4 inches and weighs 230 pounds. He is an unusually fast boxer for such a big man, and has a right hand that carries a kick. He broke two ribs for one of his partners Saturday. The Italian carries no marks of having received batterings

Stribling To Pick Beauties Tonight

Young Stribling, a victor, heavyweight contender and selector of various celebrated beauties in contests around the nation, who meets Arthur De Kuh at Spiller field Armistice afternoon at 2 o'clock, is to select another winner at the Georgia theater Monday evening at 9 o'clock.

Local merchants have scoured their establishments in search of their most charming representative. The beauties are to appear in the most sumptuous pajama costume that can be found. And Strib will present the winner with a silver loving cup.

The Georgia-Stribling pajama parade is the first of its kind ever held in Atlanta. Among the merchants having entries are J. P. Allen, H. G. Lewis, R. H. Davis, Kelly & Company, Slat A. Putt golf links, Bookhammer beauty shop, Sears-Roebuck, Robert Fulton hotel, Winecoff hotel, Piedmont hotel, S. & W. cafeteria, and Maier & Berkele.

Charlie Wilson, Atlanta, 4 rounds. Battle royal. Referee, Jack Dempsey, main event.

Jack Will Arrive Tuesday For Go

Jack Dempsey, the old champion himself, will arrive in Atlanta Tuesday by airplane from Jackson, Miss., and will referee the Stribling-DeKuh fight at Spiller field the afternoon of Armistice Day.

Dempsey is coming here in compliment to his friend Stribling with whom he visited for two weeks this fall.

Jack and Stribling will be honor guests at a luncheon at the Robert Fulton hotel Tuesday at which men prominent in Atlanta sports and business will be present.

about the head and eyes as most boxers do.

The Stribling camp expects that DeKuh will go a long way with W. L. The difference in weight and height, for one thing, will make Arthur a hard man to bring down. Then DeKuh carries a right hand that jolts when it lands. If he connects with Stribling early, it may slow up the Georgian and carry the fight quite a ways.

Stribling, of course, is favored to win; but how far the fight will go is a matter of speculation. The other night in Boston on the same card on which Stribling knocked out Christner, DeKuh won an easy decision over Al Hartwell in ten rounds. He also holds a verdict over Christner, and recently knocked out Bud Gorman. So he is no push-over, judging by recent records.

The baseball park today will be made over into a fight arena. Seats will be provided for 10,000. Of these, 5,000 are ringside and 1,800 circus seats will be erected on the field. The grandstand and other reserved sections are at 10,000.

Even if only 12,000 people see the fight—and that number is considered a conservative estimate—it will set a new record for festive crowds in Georgia. The only other big outdoor fight staged in Georgia was in 1923, when Young Stribling, then a light-heavyweight, fought Mike McGigue, the champion. The gate there was $16,000. Prospects, on a basis of advance sales, are that the receipts in Atlanta will be close to $20,000 at the lowest.

Requests for seats have come in from Georgia cities by the hundreds. Tampa, Miami, New Orleans, Memphis, Nashville, Montgomery, Mobile, Chattanooga, Charlotte, Jacksonville are among the outside points ordering blocks of seats.

THE CARD.
Young Stribling, Macon, vs. Arthur DeKuh, Italy, 10 rounds.
Mike Maurer, Germany, vs. Roy Reavis, Philadelphia, 10 rounds.
Carl Knowles, Rome, vs. Marshall Cardwell, LaGrange, 8 rounds.
Jack Wilson, Atlanta, vs. Mike Fargo, Lindale, 6 rounds.

Herb Martin, Arizona, vs. Harley Baker, Fort McPherson, 4 rounds.

Gridiron Title Tangle Has Experts Fretting

Several Teams Likely To Present Claims to National Crown; Irish Still Favored.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Much chaff has already been separated from the football wheat, but the winning process goes on apace this month and it is quite likely that one or more present undefeated and untied eleven will have their records darkened before Christmas and Santa Claus are upon us.

However, it is probable that a half dozen or so teams will win through, in which case the pigskin experts will be in for it when they try to pick the national champion because there most likely will be "national champions" in every sector of the country.

Notre Dame is still the favorite. However, the Irish have the toughest schedule remaining of any unbeaten or untied team. The ex-Ramblers of Old Man Rockne must wade through Drake, Northwestern, Army and Southern California before calling it a season.

Much easier schedules remain for Marquette, Utah, Oregon, Alabama, Fordham and Washington State. Northwestern is expected because the Purple have Notre Dame to beat. The games remaining to be played

Walker Aspires To Stribling Bout

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(P)—Mickey Walker, fresh from his successful invasion of the heavyweight ranks by his decisive victory over Johnny Risko, tossed defies at Jack Sharkey and W. L. "Young" Stribling tonight.

The world middleweight champion, through his manager, Jack Kearns, offered to fight Sharkey for the milk fund in New York next month.

"Mickey will box the Boston job and will not take a cent more than Sharkey does for training expenses," Kearns said.

"Stribling has been signed by the Chicago stadium for a fight December 12 and Mickey is ready to step into that match too, if Stribling wants to meet him."

BIKE GRIND STARTS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(P)—Judge John H. Lyle, enemy of gunmen, fired the starting pistol which sent 15 teams away at 9 o'clock tonight in Chicago's 24th international six-day bicycle race in the Chicago stadium.

W. L., Jim Sought For Bout at Miami

Douglass Plans "Battle of Palms" With Bostonian Sharing Spotlight in February.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 9.—The Battle of the Palms in Miami this season will more than likely be between Young Stribling and Jim Maloney, conqueror of Primo Carnera, Ed Douglass, promoter for the Florida National Guard, reported here today.

This announcement was made by Promoter Douglass following a lengthy long-distance telephone conversation last night with Dan Carroll, Boston, Maloney's manager. Carroll agreed to Maloney boxing two shows in Miami, one in January and the other February 17 or 20.

Douglass made a $35,000 guarantee for the February appearance against Stribling. He refused to divulge the guarantee made to Stribling, but said it was "plenty."

Asked why he picked Maloney instead of Jack Sharkey, he said, "Maloney beat Carnera a few weeks ago and stepped into the picture as the next logical contender for Stribling."

The only "logical" shows of 40 days ago—Stribling-Carnera and Stribling-Sharkey—have apparently blown up, Carnera having been beaten by Maloney and returned to his native Italy and negotiations between the Gob and Stribling having been a total failure to date.

"Pa" Stribling, in Atlanta for the Armistice Day bout between W. L. and Arthur DeKuh, said Sunday night that Douglass' offer "sounded all right." He added that he had conferred with the Maloney camp some time ago regarding the bout, and that he saw no reason why it should not be put over.

DEBS, PARIS VISITOR, NEWLYWEDS HONORED TODAY

Mrs. Greberich To Be Given Welcome Tea by Mrs. Cohen

November's pace is swift. The weeks fairly fly by, and each day some interesting social function centering around prominent visitors and the debutante coterie, furnish inspiration for assembling the fashionable set. A Paris visitor, Mrs. Oscar Greberich, who will be pleasantly remembered as Miss Mabel Drake, of Atlanta, is to be central figure at the informal tea given this afternoon by her cousin, Mrs. John S. Cohen, at her Peachtree road residence. Mrs. Cohen has invited the honor guest's lifelong friends to call between 4 and 6 o'clock, to extend welcome to this erstwhile Atlanta, who belongs to one of the most aristocratic families in the state.

A foursome of popular debutantes, Misses Teresa Wade Atkinson, Hannah Sterne, Sarah De Saussure and Sarah Meador, will play bridge and sip tea with Miss Ruth Hendrix at her Piedmont road home, the honor guests being intimate friends of the hostess. Invited to meet them are Misses Margaret Arnold, Frances Barnwell, Laura Hoke, Elizabeth Spalding, Jane Zuber, Louise Riser, Phoebe Rhett, Marion Peacock, Pauline, Julia Meador, Caroline Paulin, Mary Cox Bryan, Evelyn Sims, Martha Mizell, Mary Smith, Martha Hudson, Kathaleen Pierson, Eugenia Bridges, Ruth Rowbotham, Mrs. Payson Kennedy, Mrs. William Hightower and Mrs. Horace Collingsworth, Jr.

Newlyweds Honored.

The newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Warren Boyd, whose marriage was solemnized recently at North Avenue Presbyterian church, will be feted at a series of social affairs. Their father, G. H. Rosenbusch, has issued invitations to a reception Monday, November 10, to be given at his home on Fairview road, in Druid Hills, and assisting in receiving will be Mrs. E. A. Rosenbusch, mother of the host and grandmother of Mrs. Boyd, and Mrs. John Morris, mother of Mr. Boyd.

The date chosen for the reception has quite a bit of sentiment attached to it, as today was the date upon which Mr. and Mrs. Boyd were to have been married at a brilliant evening ceremony in the Church of the Epiphany, attended by bridesmaids, groomsmen and ushers. Instead, they were quietly wedded October 25, the ceremony being performed at noon by Dr. Richard Orme Flynn, and witnessed by one or two friends who were taken into their confidence.

Nelson Niall, Jr., Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Nelson Niall entertained at her home on Huntington road in honor of her young son, Nelson Niall, Jr., last Thursday. The house was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums carrying out the color scheme of yellow and green. When the guests assembled several games were played. The fish pond provided much amusement, and prizes were awarded to Miss Jennie Hancock and Master Tommy Howard for pinning on the donkey's tail. After the games the children were invited in the dining room and gathered around the attractively appointed table where they were presented with baskets of candy and other favors. Mrs. Niall was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Miss Mary V. Gramling, of Brunswick, and Mrs. Jack Wright, Jr. The guests were: John Knox, Jr., Torrance Chalmers, Bobby Ingram, Jane Campbell, Ed Claughton, Marion Bell, Anne and Catherine Wynne, Ed Greene, Jr., Cato Welchel, Russell and Rainey Williams, Nellie Feltz, Bill Rahner, Skippy Harris, Beverly Neely, Anne and Carolyn Brimberry, Paul Peniston, Billy Tilly, Tommy Brannon, Mary and Jennie Hancock, Tommy Howard, LeGarde O'Sullivan, Hugh White, Shirley Davis, Walter Mitchell, Jr., Bobby Robinson, Bud- dy Bowcock, Beaumont Darison, III, Everhart Cunningham, Brown Reeves, Bill Anderson, Barbara Holleran and Ruth Hoppe.

Mrs. Rice Voices Opinion On 'Armistice Day'

"Armistice Day, celebrating the conclusion of the world's greatest war, pertinently emphasizes our experiences in that war against England in which my ancestors served," declared Mrs. Charles F. Rice, past honorary state president and past regent of General John Floyd chapter of Atlanta, Ga., and also vice president national of the United States national society of the daughters of 1812, of which Mrs. Samuel Z. Shope, of Narberth, near Philadelphia, is president national.

"The lessons of the World War," continued Mrs. Rice, "have been welded into a comprehensive national defense law. The operations of this law will prevent a debacle similar to that of the War of 1812, which, because of lack of training and failure of supplies, required 50,000 regular soldiers, a constantly changing militia force secured from over 450,000 short-term enlistments together with an expenditure of over $82,000,000 to overcome a hostile force which at its maximum was less than 17,000 trained, experienced soldiers."

Mrs. Rice is a granddaughter of Lieutenant Eliza Strong, acting captain of the Georgia militia during the War of 1812, and enlisted in Lexington, Ga., a "real daughter," Mrs. Elizabeth Pettit Ware, whose father served as sentry, at the age of 15, in the third regiment of infantry of Georgia, and died in 1803. The local chapter has 80 members. Mrs. Henry county, took an active part in the War of 1812 and undoubtedly there are others eligible for membership whose applications might be sent to Mrs. C. Decker Tobo, 12 East Shadowlawn, the local registrar.

BALANCED COLD

Neither too dry nor too moist, but just right for keeping perishable foods at their best. ICE in an approved refrigerator safeguards the garden-freshness of vegetables and keeps them crisp and tender; it does not dry them out or toughen them.

ICE retains the precious flavors and succulent juices in meats, poultry, and fish, robbing them of neither weight nor color.

From farms, dairies and packing houses, ICE protects your foods, and the most experienced grocers and meat merchants maintain ICE protection in their shops. You can do no more than continue that safe procedure in your home, right up to the time your food is prepared for the table.

ICE maintains a continuous circulation of BALANCED COLD in your refrigerator, chilling your foods to just the right degree to prevent spoilage and improve their taste. Those who know all the facts, prefer ICE refrigeration—fall, winter, spring and summer. It is the method of cooling food that time has proved—safe, silent, sure and—most economical.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

INSTALLMENT XLII

Mary came out of the kitchen and caught me staring at them. "Come by hand since lunch time," she volunteered. "All but one, I found that in the box."

I nodded, gathered them up and took them into the study.

The first one ran thus:

Dear Mr. Clement:

Something has come to my knowledge which I feel you ought to know.

It concerns the death of poor Colonel Protheroe. I should much appreciate your advice on the matter—whether to go to the police or not.

Since my dear husband's death I have such a shrinking from every kind of publicity. Perhaps you could run in and see me for a few minutes this afternoon.

Yours sincerely,

MARTHA PRICE RIDLEY.

I opened the second.

Dear Mr. Clement:

I am so troubled—so exercised in my mind—to know what I ought to do.

Something has come to my ears that I feel may be important. I have such a horror of being mixed up with the police in any way. I am so disturbed and distressed. Would it be asking too much of you, dear vicar, to drop in for a few minutes and solve my doubts and perplexities for me in the wonderful way you always do?

Forgive me troubling you.

Yours very sincerely,

CAROLINE WETHERBY.

The third, I felt, I could almost have recited beforehand.

Dear Mr. Clement:

Something most important has come to my ears. I feel you should be the first to know about it. Will you call in and see me this afternoon sometime? I will wait in for you.

This militant epistle was signed

AMANDA HARTNELL.

I opened the fourth missive. It has been my good fortune to be troubled with very few anonymous letters. An anonymous letter is, I think, the meanest and crudest weapon there is. This one was no exception. It purported to be written by an illiterate person, but several things inclined me to believe that assumption.

Dear Vicar:

I think you ought to know what is going on. Your lady has been seen coming out of Mr. Redding's cottage in a surreptitious manner. You know what I mean. The two are carrying on together. I think you ought to know. A friend.

I made a faint exclamation of disgust, and crumpling up the paper, tossed it into the open grate just as Griselda entered the room.

"What's that you're throwing down so contemptuously?" she asked.

"Fifth," I said.

Taking a match from my pocket, I struck one and bent down. Griselda, however, was too quick for me. She had stooped down and caught up the crumpled ball of paper and smoothed it out before I could stop her.

She read it, gave a little exclamation of disgust and tossed it back to me, turning away as she did so. I lit it and watched it burn.

Griselda had moved away. She was standing by the window looking out.

"Lor, she said without turning round."

"Yes, my dear."

"I'd like to tell you something. Yes, don't stop me. I want to, please. When—when Lawrence Redding came here, I let you think I had only known him slightly before. That wasn't true. I had known him rather well. In fact, before I met you, I had been rather in love with him. I think most people are with Lawrence. I was—well, absolutely silly about him at one time. I don't mean I wrote him compromising letters or anything idiotic like they do in books. But I was rather keen on him once. But I was rather keen on him once."

"Why didn't you tell me?" I asked.

"Oh, because I don't know exactly, except that—well, you're foolish in some ways. Just because you're so much older than I am, you think that—well, that I'm likely to like other people. I thought you'd be tiresome, perhaps, about me and Lawrence's friends."

"You're very clever at concealing things," I said, remembering what she had told me in that room less than a week ago, and the ingenious, natural way she had talked.

"Yes, I've always been able to hide things. In a way, I like doing it."

"But it's quite true what I said. I didn't know about Anne, and I won't."

dered why Lawrence was so different, not—well, really not noticing me. I'm not used to it."

There was a pause.

"You do understand, Len?" said Griselda, anxiously.

"Yes," I said. "I understand."

But did I?

I found it hard to shake off the impression left by the anonymous letter.

However, I gathered up the other three letters, glanced at my watch and started out.

I wondered very much what this might be that "had come to the knowledge" of three ladies simultaneously. I took it to be the same piece of news. In this, I was to realize that my psychology was at fault.

I cannot pretend that my calls took me past the police station. My feet gravitated there of their own accord. I was anxious to know whether Inspector Slack had returned from Old Hall.

I found that he had, and, further, that Miss Cram had returned with him. The fair Gladys was seated in the police station, carrying off matters with a high hand. She denied absolutely having taken the suitcase to the woods.

"Just because one of these gossiping old cats has nothing better to do than look out of her window all night you go and pitch upon me. She's been mistaken once, remember, when she said she saw me at the end of the lane on the afternoon of the murder, and if she was mistaken then, in daylight, how can she possibly have recognized me by moonlight?"

"Wicked, it is, the way these old ladies go on down here. Say anything they will. And me asleep in my bed as innocent as can be. You ought to be ashamed of yourself, the lot of you."

"And supposing the landlady of the Blue Boat identifies the suitcase as yours, Miss Cram?"

"If she says anything of the kind, she's wrong. There's no name on it. Nearly everybody's got a suitcase like that. As for poor Dr. Stone, accusing him of being a common burglar! And he with a lot of letters after his name."

"You refuse to give us any explanation, then, Miss Cram?"

"No refusing about it," Miss Cram said. "You've made a mistake, that's all. You and your meddling Marples. I won't say a word more—without my solicitor present. I'm going this minute—unless you're going to arrest me."

For answer, the inspector rose and opened the door for her, and with a toss of the head, Miss Cram walked out.

"That's the line she takes," said Slack, coming back to his chair. "She's a devil. And of course the old lady may have been mistaken. No jury would believe you could recognize any one from that distance on a moonlit night. And of course, as I say, the old lady may have made a mistake."

"She may," I said, "but I don't think she did. Miss Marple usually is right. That's what makes her unpopular."

The inspector grinned.

"That's what Hurst says. Lor, these villages!"

"What about the silver, inspector?"

"Seemed to be perfectly in order. Of course that meant one of the other must be a fake. There's a very good man in Much Benham, an authority on old silver. I've phoned over to him and sent a car to fetch him. Well soon know which is which. Either the burglary was an accomplished fact, or else it was only planned. Does that make a frightful lot of differences either way—I mean as far as we're concerned. Robbery's a small business compared with murder. These two aren't concerned with the murder. We'll maybe get a line on him through the girl—that's why I let her go without any more fuss."

"I wondered," I said.

"A pity about Mr. Redding. It's not often you find a man who goes out of his way to oblige you."

"I suppose not," I said smiling slightly.

"Women cause a lot of trouble," moralized the inspector.

He sighed and then went on, somewhat to my surprise, "Of course there's Archer."

"Q!" I said. "You've thought of him?"

PURE MILK LEAGUE BANQUET. THURSDAY

Organization Will Elect Officers at Decatur Meeting.

The Georgia Pure Milk League's annual banquet and election of officers will be held Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock at the Chandler hotel in Decatur. The committee on arrangements, composed of the officers and trustees, speaking through the secretary, Harry L. Brown, announces this banquet promises to be the biggest and best ever held by the association.

The membership of the Georgia Pure Milk League includes 135 of the leading dairymen in this section. The dairies and farms of the members of the league are located in Fulton, DeKalb and adjoining counties, and many of them are show places of interest.

The leaders and officers in this organization are emphatic in their statement to the new applicants for membership in the league that they must have clean, modern barns with a good forced water pressure where the barns can be washed twice a day. They also stress cleanliness among their milkers and the rigid inspection by the county health authorities as well as the league's own appointed inspectors, who will not permit those not in good health to in any way handle any milk.

The members of this league as a whole are very proud of their association and they number among them many representative farmers in Fulton, DeKalb, Campbell, Henry, Cobb, Douglas, Clayton, Gwinnett and Milton counties. Many of these dairymen have been serving their customers clean, wholesome, natural milk for 20 years or more and have customers who have raised healthy boys and girls on their milk, and their confidence could not be shaken in their milkman no matter from what source his product may be assured.

The wider uses of electricity during the past few years has also been a great aid to the modern dairymen and though his dairy barns may be outside the corporate limits of a big city, he has the same advantages of a city industry in the making of his own ice and electrical refrigeration.

The importance of access to a market of great interest to a dairymen and it would be a hard matter to find a member of the Georgia Pure Milk League who has not protected his milk from flies and other insects, from the minute it is produced until it is delivered to the customer.

The individual member of the league is impressed with the responsibility and duty he owes his customers, and this responsibility is helped weekly and monthly sanitary medical inspections have been the slightest fear or alarm among the customers of these dairymen about epidemics, due to impure milk, breaking out in the Atlanta sector.

The banquet Thursday night will include the wives and daughters of the dairymen, and the committee is promising that some nationally known men will be included among those at the speakers' table.

YANCEY MAKES PLANS FOR TRACTOR SCHOOL

The 1930 Caterpillar tractor school will be held at Yancey Brothers, 634 Whitehall street, S. W., December 11 and 12. This school is especially arranged for owners, operators, and prospective purchasers of Caterpillar equipment. It is conducted in an unusually attractive manner and will hold the interest of all attending from start to finish. The subjects to be discussed deal with many important present-day problems where efficient and economical machinery is necessary for success either on contract, governmental, or farm work.

The program provides for interesting lectures and informal talks. The mechanical features of Caterpillar equipment will be not only presented in lectures and short talks, but supplemented by moving pictures, slides, and last and most important, talking pictures. All caterpillar equipment will be on exhibit and any questions will be answered regarding mechanical operation, or upkeep.

Days selected for the school are especially desirable as it is possible for those attending to bring their wives and take care of any prospective shopping which they may care to do before the holiday rush. Atlanta, with the largest stores, wonderful hotel facilities, as well as the best moving plant in the South, offers an interesting trip for shopping or visiting plans of amusement. All attending will be guests of the company when the school is held.

It is intended to make the 1930 school bigger and better. This is an annual affair and complete success last year was made possible by good attendance. It is hoped that this year the attendance will be larger, and plans are being made for record enrollment.

CROWDS ATTRACTED BY MODEL GROCERY

Pure Food Store Sponsored by Retail Dealers' Association.

Thousands of people who have passed 72 North Broad street since October 20 have been noticing a beautiful grocery store at that location. This is a model pure food-grocery store sponsored and operated by the Atlanta Retail Food Dealers' Association, and has been arranged according to plans furnished by the United States department of commerce.

The purpose of this model grocery store is to show the retailer how economies of operation may be effected. The arrangement is part self-service and part clerical service, and the combination of the two is such as will permit one or two clerks to wait on a large number of people in a short time.

This Atlanta model store is purely an educational undertaking put on by the local Retail Food Association and an encouraging movement that will elevate the standard of food merchandising and is in charge of S. D. Mullins, first vice president of the Atlanta Food Dealers' Association. The equipping and stocking of this model grocery store was a movement in which many leading wholesale men and merchant supply men took part. Among the leaders was the White Provision Company, which displays a generous supply of its well-known products. The president of the company, Lorenz Neuhoff, says the complete lending encouragement to Georgia people to live on Georgia raised products as much as they can, as this will better aid the Georgia farmers to raise more and better cattle in the future, as well as give them profitable, healthful employment.

The Toledo Scale Company, of 338 Marietta street, has co-operated in the fixture line. W. M. Randolph, southern sales manager, says that out of 30 years' experience with problems of retail merchants which relate to the weights, the Toledo Scale Company has selected the best and most successful practices of retail stores of America and abroad.

This company has scores of offices in this country and Canada and 30 foreign countries.

The Home Desk & Furniture Company also is giving valuable assistance in furnishing office equipment and fixtures to make this model grocery store the and success it is.

The Cloy Gasteam Heating Company, 140 Walker street, installed the heating radiators that have made this model grocery store a comfortable place for the hundreds that have visited it. Under the system of this company each radiator makes its own steam heat and a gas burner is completely enclosed with cast iron, and each radiator acts independently of all other heating units; enabling the store or home owner to use just as little gas as it takes to heat one steam radiator, if that is all that is needed.

Gardner food products are displayed in the store. This company has made enormous strides in the past few years and at present is giving profitable employment to a large number of men and women.

The Lee Baking Company has an exhibit of wholesome bread and cakes. Mr. Lee expresses much pleasure at the favorable recognition the products are receiving.

COOL WEATHER BRINGS GASTEAM INTO SERVICE

The cool weather of the past week has brought out a new use for Cloy Gasteam radiators in homes as auxiliary heat for residences that are now equipped with steam boilers or warm air furnaces. So many homes have extra large rooms or sun porches that were possibly added after the central heating plant was put in and which cannot be successfully heated on the original central heating system. In these cases, Cloy Gasteam radiators can be easily installed in the under-heated rooms as auxiliary heat. The Gasteam radiator can generally be located under windows where the greatest amount of heat loss occurs and thus give highest efficiency.

The radiators are of cast iron construction and conform with standard steam radiators in appearance. Operating costs are low and the flame is always under automatic control. The heat is distributed from cast iron steam radiator sections that are acknowledged to be one of the most efficient means of heat distribution.

The first Gasteam radiators were manufactured by James B. Cloy & Sons, of Chicago, Ill., in 1902. For several years their use was naturally limited to the few sections of the country supplied with natural gas but they were soon found a constantly widening market for the radiators in certain types of heating on artificial gas, and in some sections of the country many were installed every year.

With the constantly increasing supply of natural gas over the United States, the demand for Gasteam heating has very materially increased and today over 25 district sales offices and warehouses are required to distribute the product. James B. Cloy & Sons is one of the largest producers of cast iron products in the United States, with large foundries at Newcomerstown and Coshocton, Ohio, and at Birmingham, Ala.

The Atlanta branch of the Cloy

Gasteam Heating Company was established in April of this year. For 10 years prior to that time, offices were maintained at Birmingham and Jacksonville, but with the advent of natural gas into the Atlanta district it was decided to make Atlanta general headquarters for the entire southeastern states.

in charge of the Atlanta branch. He entered the gas business in 1907 and for the past 10 years has been in charge of sales activities for the Cloy Gasteam Heating Company in the southeast. He is a director of the Southern Gas Association and is well known throughout this section as an authority on the utilization of gas for heating.

WRECKING COMPANY SEEKS MATERIALS

R. Scheck, proprietor of the Atlanta Wrecking Company, 319 Walker street, says "We go to the people for the first time since we have been in business telling them we want new and second-hand building materials of all kinds. We especially want to tear down any old houses or abandoned business buildings, no matter where located, in the general vicinity of Atlanta."

"This late summer and early fall we had unusual demands for all kinds of building materials, due to so many people doing small repairs, building garages and small houses, and so on. Our advertising has been read very widely, calling attention to the fact that we carry about everything that may be needed in building supplies, and business has been exceptionally good with us."

"The demand has been so good and promises to be even better, we are prepared to act very promptly where any one wants an old building removed to improve their property. We do not want to create the impression," concluded Mr. Scheck, "that we have not a good supply in many lines of building materials in our large yards, but at the rate we are selling it now it will take a much larger supply to justify us to remain in business many months longer."

OGLETHORPE HIGHWAY WORK PROGRESSING

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 9.—(P)—Causeway work on the Oglethorpe highway in the vicinity of the new Doctertown bridge across the Altamaha river should be completed within two weeks, according to Frank M. Oliver, president of the Oglethorpe Highway Association, after an inspection trip.

All that remains to be done is to finish the embankment at Puckett lake and to complete leveling down the embankment on the causeway leading to Morgan lake.

The highway, however, is not to be used until the road is surfaced. This work is to go on the 1931 program of the state highway board, Mr. Oliver has been informed, the contract probably being let the middle of next January. By next April the road from Ludowici to Waycross should be surfaced. The portion of the highway between Waycross and Blackshear is already surfaced.

NAVAL STORES CO-OP PLANS ANNOUNCED

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 9.—(P)—The Gum Turpentine, Rosin Marketing Association, the co-operative sales organization of over 1,000 turpentine operators of the south, has gotten under way in the Savannah and Jacksonville markets.

Official announcement of its plans and purposes has just been made by Irving Post, vice president and general manager, who gives its definite policy as follows:

First—To co-operate with its members and other gum turpentine farmers in problems of production, with a view to perpetuation of the industry.

Second—To promote and encourage the production of an annual crop having regard to its relationship to world production and consumption.

Third—To develop a more economical and orderly system of marketing with a view to stabilization.

Fourth—To co-operate with distributors in the United States and to the markets of the world with a view to improving methods of distribution.

Fifth—To encourage trade extension through research and advertising.

Sixth—To promote plans and activities that will be of mutual benefit to the industry, to the consumers of turpentine gum products, and the public at large.

According to Mr. Post no effort will be spared by the association to co-operate not only with the producers in problems of production, but to work in close harmony with the consuming trade generally.

Many reforms are needed, said Mr. Post, and it is the intention of the association to get together with the trade and work out the proper solution to the problems with which all are faced.

"O Fairest Flower!
No Sooner Blown but Blasted!"

GOOD MUSIC in our country has grown to a glorious blossoming. American orchestras, American musicians now rank with the finest in the world. Shall we continue to nurture and cherish this beautiful flower, or shall we let it dwindle and die under blighting Canned Music poured out by mechanical Robots?

Which do you prefer for the money you pay at the theatre box office? The stirring performance of Living Music played and felt by flesh-and-blood musicians, or a strident din from the throat of a heartless piece of machinery? Shall it be glamor or clamor?

Millions of men and women who love real music are demanding that it shall not be blighted... demanding that they shall not be deprived of enjoyment to which they're entitled. These millions are giving force to their demands by enrolling in the Music Defense League. You can swell this chorus of protest by mailing this coupon today. Do it!

Lightnin' Bill Jones

REMEMBER the line in the lovable play, Lightnin', when Bill Jones received his pension check from the Government? "See all them names on there—Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of War, and so on? This check ain't good unless I sign it!" said Bill with an air of importance.

And he was right. Without his little endorsement, the check was a mere scrap of paper.

The little things of life, as you have often heard, are tremendously important. The small advertisements in The Constitution have messages for you that are just as important as the messages in the larger advertisements. Read the small advertisements as well as the larger ones.

Not only the so-called "want" ads, but the little "display" ads. Read them. Let them guide you to real merchandise values, real savings. Don't overlook them because they are small. Without the tiny detonator, or fuse, the big guns that shoot a distance of miles become merely tons of useless steel.

Be sure to read the small ads as well as the larger ones.
They have something important to tell you of which their size is no indication

OF POWER FIGHT

Last of Three Installments Detailing Fight in Prospect Over Proposed Regulation.

This is the last of three articles telling of the bitter fight in prospect over proposed regulation by the United States government of electric power in interstate commerce.

BY G. GOULD LINCOLN.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Electric power is a vital factor in modern industry and modern life. While nearly all industries are dependent upon power, the electric power industry is the only one that is not dependent upon power.

It is little wonder, therefore, that the regulation of electric power is the subject of discussion. Particularly because it is bound up with water power—a great natural resource—the regulation of the power industry has become a political issue in many of the states.

The United States federal power commission is authority for the statement that 90 per cent of the farms of the United States are still without electric service from central power stations. It asserts, too, that one-third of the population of the country still lives in homes without electric service. Only 2 per cent of the railroad mileage of the country has been electrified.
